

From the Ashes
by Brian Russell

A yellow leaf falls to the ground,
It's washed into the soil by the rain.
As it loses itself in the earth,
it feeds a new beginning.

Chorus

From our brokenness, we're made strong.
He holds us closely to His side.
From our sorrow He gives us hope.
(And) from the ashes, He brings new life

The boy cried out as they reset his leg.
His father grieved at the pain of his son.
As he healed, he was stronger, better -
Now you should see that boy run!

Chorus

These mysteries shake our very bones
But God left a rainbow to show us we're not alone

We say it was Friday evening, when the sun (Son) had gone away
Their cruel abuse had ended our Loved One's life...

Come Sunday morning, they found an empty grave
And from that emptiness, God chased away the night

Chorus

From the ashes, from the ashes, He brings new life
